The Message of the Month

SERVING BY SENDING

"For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Romans 10:13-15.

A criticism often heard, and sadly enough, often justified, of preaching today is that it fails to be practical. It is quite true that ministers frequently stand before their people and present perhaps very beautiful and moving sermons. They are spiritual truth, but they aren't practical. They describe what we ought to be, but they fail somehow to point the way. They fail to answer the question, "How?"

People are asking some serious questions today because they are doing serious thinking. They are asking, "What can I do?" "How can I serve in a more real way?" Some time ago a minister wrote in to one of our church papers and asked the question, "What is the real frontier today?" In other words, if I am to serve the Master in the best possible way, where will I go, what will I do? I believe that many people truly want to know the answer to that question.

I do not claim to know the complete answer, but I do know one answer. Certainly the clarion call for a Christian in any age and in any situation is for him to share his faith with others. Of course the most obvious way is through our own personal evangelistic efforts. And it is a heartening fact that throughout our church today emphasis is being placed upon just that effort in the form of visitation evangelism.

Personal evangelism is basic, but we cannot stop there. The average Christian is of necessity limited in this work to those associations that he is able to cultivate in his own community. But the fact is self evident that there can be no limit placed upon the crying need of all people for Jesus Christ. Our responsibility is not and cannot be limited to those nearby. And it is right here that the Foreign Mission enterprise confronts us. Foreign Missions is concerned with the essential fundamental task of bringing men to Christ and as such is the responsibility of every true Christian. It is a most important part of what I consider the real frontier for each one of us, sharing our faith with others. And it is a field in which all may serve.

In the verses of our text there is a message that must come home to all of us as we face just now the call of Foreign Missions. In these words of Paul we find a promise, a question, and a challenge.

The promise is this - "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

God's Word abounds in precious promises. There was the promise to Abraham, "Go into a land that I will show thee." That promise was gloriously fulfilled. There was the promise to the children of Israel in Egypt that they would be delivered from bondage. And they were! The promise to the people who were captives in Babylon that a remnant should return to the land of thier fathers. And God kept His promise!

God, too, made promises to individuals, promises of help and guidance and his blessed presence. Moses heard them, Paul heard them, and more. Each one lived to have those promises fulfilled. We cannot then doubt God's word, for His promises are good.

But of all God's promises, none exceed the glorious promise of our text. The promise of that which is dearest and best of all, the promise of salvation. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." God wants men to be saved. There is no life apart from Him. Men are lost without Him, and what a world of suffering and sadness is represented by that word, "lost". But no one need be lost, for God's promise concerns a gift, a free gift, of salvation to all who will call upon Him.

And yet in the very saying of that we come to our second thought, the question. Suppose men don't call upon Him? What then? The answer is and can only be, separation from God. And that brings us face to face with the question of our text. "How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?

Does that stir your soul? It should! Does it fill you with an unquenchable desire to do something about it? God help us if it does not! For that is the question before the church today and in all ages. God has promised salvation

Christmas At Barium Springs

Christmas Peaks — Santa Claus At Work — The Miraculous Epidemic of Giving.

Anyone who has lived through a Christmas at Barium Springs will have memories to carry with them for the rest of their lives. It is like Christmas at other places just magnified, with many other special features. Of course, the idea of Christmas commences to build up from Thanksgiving right on. We are hardly through talking about the big football games that take place on Thanksgiving Day and our wonderful Alumni game at Barium on that day before the talk of Christmas drowns it out. To help it along is the flood of Christmas cards that commence to come in very soon after Thanksgiving. By the time the November bills have all gotten in, the mail is getting heavier every day and our postmaster develops a squint from reading the names on so many Christmas cards. They come to us from all over the world - most of them without return addresses. Most of them are from people whom we know, some are from people whom we think we know, and some leave us completely bewildered. For instance we may get a post card from Cincinnati signed "with love, Mary," and we try to think of all the Marys we have known and loved who might be living in Cincinnati! Then there are so many that are signed with the husband's name "Mrs. Whosis." We know that when a girl marries, the name of the man whom she marries is the most important name in the world, and she is perfectly justified in feeling that all the world should know who she is by that name, but we do not know.

For many years we tried to acknowledge all the cards that came in to us, but for the last five years we have given it up as a completely hopeless job and have simply extended our thanks through the columns of The Messenger which we are doing this time. We want to thank everybody - and this means at least five hundred people - who were kind enough to send us Christmas cards. Thanks a million. It warmed our hearts and made us feel really important that so many people thought of us at Christmas. We wanted to just call you up and thank you every time a card was received. Now, we look at the pile on our living room table and gloat when anybody comes in and we tell them that that many people remembered us at Christmas. They came from nearby and from far distant points and all are greatly appreciated.

The mails were full of other things besides Christmas cards - Christmas letters. There were the letters going out from our big family of children to the people who had asked for their Christmas letters, and then there were letters to relatives and to clothing people, and before long the returns on these letters commenced to show up. We have a big conference room at Barium where the Board of Regents meet and where the staff meet occasionally, and this is the Christmas room. Christmas presents are brought in and listed with the name of the donor and the name of the child for whom it is intended and a record is carefully kept. A postal card is immediately mailed to the person sending the gift to let them know of its safe arrival. These presents are all kept together until the day before Christmas when they are sent out to the various cottages, and you would not believe the number that are in that pile of gifts - beautiful gifts, an amazing variety. It makes you take off your hat in awe and gratitude to see the magnificent response of the people who love to do things for the children at Barium Springs to make their Christmas a happy one.

We are getting ahead of the story, however. Long before these packages are opened we have the "Give To" Christmas Tree. We have described this in former years and now it is one of the most delightful occasions that we have. We always have it before school closes while the teachers are still here. The whole Barium community - teachers and nearby neighbors and the children gather in our dining room and there to an accompaniment of Christmas Carols as we decorate a Christmas tree. We start with the bare tree and as we make our gift we pin a decoration on the tree and end up with a most beautifully decorated tree and a substantial gift for some worthy cause. This year it went to the Home Mission enterprises under the direction of Reverend John W. Luke of Glendale Springs, N. C. We know Mr. Luke and we know the grand work that he has been doing for so many years and we enthusiastically made his work the object of our gift this year.

After this big occasion, the various grades in school usually have a little program or party or something and many gifts are exchanged. Through the kindness of several friends the children are provided with some Christmas money - not all of the children - just those who do not otherwise have any money, and there is a hilarious shopping day for each of them. You ought to see what happens to a five and ten-cent store when some forty children invade it each with a dollar or a dollar and a half to spend. Things really happen.

A special friend sends in a pretty sizable check to be divided among the late comers - those who have been at Barium only a short time when Christmas arrives. This is more than the ordinary child receives, but the idea back of it is to let that first Christmas be so impressive that the child will never forget it. Well, the idea works. One of the boys who was the recipient of this money this year apparently had never heard of Santa Claus. He had certainly never enjoyed a Christmas that made it stand out as any different from any other day. He was rather skeptical - he did not believe that things were going to happen like the other boys told him they were. Well, when he got through with his spending spree and with the Christmas distribution of gifts he was ready to tell the world there is such a person as Santa Claus.

Well, Christmas Day finally arrived. By this time the teachers have gone; some of the workers have gone, but most of them hang around until about ten o'clock Christmas morning. By that time the various Christmas trees have taken place. In fact, this business starts

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

The time we have been waiting for has finally come and gone. Thanks to all our many Friends, Christmas here at Barium was just wonderful.

All the nice toys we received were just the thing for playing indoors on rainy days. If you come by our house all you will be able to hear is the lovely music of our xylophones and pianos. Christmas wouldn't be Christmas if we didn't get Old Maid Cards to play with. Our big sisters and matron like to play this game with us too.

Also we want to thank all our friends for the candy and nuts. We will still be eating candy and nuts for a long time to come.

When the weather is pretty we are going to dress up our dolls in all their pretty clothes and take them for a nice long walk.

Many of our girls got beautiful pocketbooks for Christmas. If any of you see us come sporting out in our new dresses, socks, handkerchiefs and pocketbooks, you'll know where they came from. All of these new clothes combined make a dazzling outfit.

One night one of our little girls was wakened out of a deep sleep by a shrill whistle. Not knowing what it was she decided she would wait for a repeated whistle. Sure enough a repeated whistle was fast and loud in coming. What she heard sounded like a quartet tuning up for their concert. One girl was snoring bass, another alto, another tenor and the last soprano which was the shrill whistle that she had heard previously.

One morning, not having any heat, all of us gathered in one room to play games, listen to the radio, and to eat a snack now and then. All the games you sent us came in very handy during this occasion and many more since then when we couldn't get out in the yard to play.

We are looking forward to a lot of snow this winter. It has snowed only once here at Barium, but that wasn't enough to brag about.

Basketball has started and we are hoping that our boys and girls will win the conference.

Again let us thank all our many friends for the lovely gifts which we received from them.

Until next month, we remain yours.

—The Annie Louise Girls.

GLEE CLUB

After the seniors graduate, we nearly always feel that certain school organizations have been ruined beyond repair by their loss. This is about the way we felt about the Glee Club, after losing almost one third of last year's membership by graduation. However, others always come along to take their places, and this year the Glee Club has more members than last year, and is probably just as good. Last year our music director was Miss Rachel Hickman. This year it is Mrs. Lee Spencer. Still the same person, though. She just changed her name during the summer.

Before Christmas the Glee Club prepared a program of Christmas music which was presented to the Iredell County Unit of the North Carolina Teachers' Association, the Campus Club of Davidson College, the Rotary Club of Statesville, and the Second Presbyterian Church of Mooresville.

At present, the Glee Club is working on a program of sacred music, anticipating that invitations will be received from a number of nearby churches to present this program anytime between February 20th and May 1st. Last year, one overnight trip was made by the Glee Club to Covington, Va., the home of the director; which was thoroughly enjoyed by the group, and was a kind of reward for the hard work it had done. This year the club is looking forward to another such trip, and a repeat invitation has been received from the people at Covington; but in order not to show partiality, some other invitation might be accepted this spring, if such an invitation were received.

The membership of the Glee Club is as follows: Sopranos: Anne Wicker, Lavona Morrison, Bernice Thoutman, Melva Powell, Jean Turlington, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson, Frances Stricklin, Anne Wil-late Christmas Eve night. The girls at Rumple Hall have to serve breakfast and we have found that appetites never take a holiday, so regardless of the fact that it is Christmas, breakfast has to be gotten ready and these girls have to pile out of bed earlier than the others and have breakfast on the table, so to keep them from simply dying of nervousness and too eager anticipation, their gifts are distributed to them the last thing before bedtime on Christmas Eve night. They started out singing Christmas carols, and while they were gone their gifts were put - not in their stockings, for these are bobby-soxers, but on the chairs that they had designated. When they returned from their singing there the gifts were. You never saw such an unwrapping procedure in your life as took place in the next thirty minutes. Some were simply overcome by the multitude and quality of gifts that they received. All were delighted. Then to bed for them. We do not know how many presents they took to bed with them, but it was a happy crowd that served breakfast the next morning. At six o'clock the next morning Lees Cottage broke the ice. This is a group of some twenty-four boys from eight to twelve years of age. Their gifts were piled around their Christmas tree. They were given out and in a very short time there were twenty-four supremely happy boys in that cottage. Each of them had some candy that they wanted everybody else to share with them; there were horns that needed tooting by everybody; there were mechanical gadgets world without end, and bows and arrows that somehow seemed to be just itching to hit somebody on an exposed part of their body. As this is written, however, some five days after Christmas nobody has been seriously wounded.

From Lees Cottage we go to the Baby Cottage, and if you don't know what pandemonium is come around some Christmas morning at 6:15 to the Baby Cottage. Such a profusion of gifts beyond imagination! This year one little girl was just overcome. She sat down and quietly fainted. We found out later, however, that it was not entirely due to delight, - she had eaten just a little bit unwisely the night before.

From the Baby Cottage we go to Howard where there are twenty-four girls eight to twelve years old - a very dignified group who had already opened their presents and had them laid out ready for visitors to see. This is the group that are beginning to forget to ask for dolls but never forget to ask for a vanity case - you see what we mean. Their presents were beautiful and thoroughly appreciated.

In the meantime, the girls at the Infirmary had had their Christmas and had invited their friends to see their gifts after breakfast. At this point everybody took a recess for breakfast, and immediately after breakfast journeyed to Jennie Gilmer Cottage where some thirty boys received their gifts. These boys are from twelve to fourteen. It seemed like footballs, basketballs, and skates predominated over everything else, although there were plenty of bows and arrows and sleds.

After this the journey was to the Quads where the big boys live and there the gifts were distributed for the last Christmas tree of the day, and you would not believe what all those boys got - sweaters, lumberjacks. One boy came up with a pair of child's boots number 10, and what he wears is a man size 10, and did the boys have a time teasing him. He had failed to put his age and size in the letter that he wrote asking for the boots and simply put the number and the people thought he was a little orphan boy with a number 10 child's foot when he is a big old football player with a number 10 man's foot. He got as much fun out of the mistake as anyone else so no harm was done. Occasionally we have girls named Jackie, Johnny, etc. and they sometimes get pocket knives and cow-boy suits. This is never very tragic, but occasionally we have boys with names like Hester, Hazel and Winifred and when they get a compact in their presents then there is trouble, but none of that happened this year.

After the Christmas trees were over we were all invited to Annie Louise, to Synods and to Lottie Walker Building to see the gifts of the little girls, the little boys and the big girls. In fact, the big girls held open house. They had their gifts displayed in their rooms and the number of "Ohs" and "Ahs" that were heard in that building would fill several spelling books. All in all, this Christmas was the best ever.

Now, here are some of the things that helped to liven up Christmas at Barium this year. Just before Christmas we were alloted some Brazil nuts. We did not know just how many but there turned out to be 2800 pounds, and believe it or not, you can chomp a lot on that many Brazil nuts. Then a good friend down in Fayetteville manufactured a six-foot stick of peppermint candy and brought that to us - it arrived here at noon on Christmas Day. We had other gifts in bulk of candy and nuts and things like that. The Recreation Center in Statesville had prepared a lot of gifts for a party that they had and sent us the surplus. It was a grand time.

And now Christmas is over and a lot of jobs have to be done. Thank you letters have to be written, and that is when the headaches commence to appear. Sometimes a present comes in without any return address; sometimes a store where a present is bought sends it to us. We acknowledge receipt of it to the store and then maybe a month or two later we will get a rather indignant letter from the person who sent the gift saying that they have not heard a word about it, and we try to run it down to see what child got that particular present so the people can be preperly thanked. Right now there are about 50 such presents. The children are eager to write their letters of thanks, but many times the address is lost in the scuffle of Christmas Day and the address may have been on the inside of the package and we have no record of it at the office.

We wish every donor could just be present on Christmas Day to see what a grand time they have and how deeply grateful the children are for their many remembrances. The children at Barium Springs are mighty proud of their folks, and the folks are all you who make our Christmas and other days possible.

If we attempted to list every present and every address of the donors and gifts in our Messenger we believe that it would take an extra edition to handle it.

What happens during the week of the holidays? Well, the picture shows come in for a big part of our entertainment. The Statesville Theatre Corporation always present every child at Barium with tickets, at least one each to the two main theatres. Then other tickets are given so that there is plenty of picture show seeing. Then there are parties and a continuous basketball games. The gymnasium opens at 8:30 in the morning and sometimes as many as 80 children are romping up and down that basketball floor shooting goals and having a grand time. During the day there are usually one or two games and this lasts right up until supper time. Mr. Jackins, the football coach and basketball official, has this in charge. Maybe he does it to keep down his weight, or maybe it is because he just loves to see kids have a good time, anyway he is worth his weight in gold - and he weights a lot - during the Christmas holidays. His family is right here at Barium and since he was raised here himself maybe it is easier for him to stay here all during the holidays.

One of the nicest things about our Christmases are the visits from boys and girls who have finished at Barium. This year there are Ernestine Baldwin, Bradley Manus, Dewie and Sadie Buie from Flora Macdonald College, there are Charles Barrett, Paul Horne, Amos Hardy, and Ernest Stricklin from Davidson, John Ammons, Charles O'Kelly, Tom McCall, Dave Spencer and many others from bygone days.

So many people did so many things for so many of us that we feel like erecting a banner across the highway with a big "Thank you" on it for everybody to see.

to all through Jesus Christ, but what of those who have not heard?

And surely there are none in our churches today who are not informed of the millions who live and die and never hear the name of Christ. China, Korea, Japan, Mexico, Brazil, Africa. Simply to list the countries in which we as a church have mission stations is to bring before our eyes a vast multitude of people struggling down the roadway of life, never knowing, never hearing that a Saviour has died for them.

Do we care? Can we dare to be complacent with that picture ever before us? How can they call on Him in whom they have not believed? How can they believe in Him of whom they have not heard. The call of Christ has never been presented to them, in all its beauty, in all its urgency. How can they hear unless there is someone to tell them of the Saviour? May God forbid that this unbelief should rest on us, that their piteous cries should ring unheeded in our ears because we have failed to do all in our power that they might believe.

And that brings us to the overwhelming challenge of the text. "How shall they preach except they be sent?"

That is the challenge the church must always face today. The ministry in earliest times was self-supporting. Ministers and evangelists had their trades, and worked at them, and were financially independent. But now today, because of the very fabric of society, that is no longer possible. By supporting our mission workers all their time may be given to their task of leading the unsaved to Jesus Christ.

There are those willing to go, if they can be sent. For those who have felt this all important call there must be support. Unless they are supported, they cannot go. It is as simple as that. That is the challenge of Foreign Missions. It is our challenge. How shall they go except they be sent. We can serve by sending.

The cause of Foreign Missions is before our church today. The time to act is now. We have had many times periods of so called self denial. But what a misnomer that has been! For we have not denied ourselves even the luxuries we count so important. May we this year, with a prayer to God to forgive us our complacency in the past, resolve that we shall give to our very utmost to this cause of bringing Christ to those who are perishing without Him.

How shall they believe? How shall they hear? The answer depends upon our willingness to help. The promise is good, it has not changed. For the Lord Jesus stands ready to save all who will believe. And looking down upon those who know him not, looking with infinite tenderness and infinite love, we hear Him saying, "These also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd."
